

Aon Corporation

About Aon:

Sam L. Boone founded Boone & Company in 1941. For more than 50 years, Boone & Company was the Southeast's premier benefits consulting firm. On July 1, 1993 Boone & Company merged with Godwins, Inc. and Miller Mason & Dickenson to form Godwins Boone & Dickenson. Later the name was changed to Aon Consulting.

Today, Aon Consulting is one of the top six world-wide employee benefit, actuarial, and compensation consulting firms providing consulting advice to a wide range of private and public employers. Aon's mission is to provide its clients with a wide range of high quality, innovative consulting and actuarial services in employee benefits, compensation and related administration and communication activities.

Aon Consulting has its headquarters in Chicago. It is a member of the Aon family of companies. Aon Corporation is a financial services holding company listed on the New York Stock Exchange and is the world's largest reinsurance brokerage firm.